Paris, March 15 (AP)—The wreckage of an Air France liner missing since yesterday with 23 persons, has been sighted on Mount Moucheron in the treacherous French Alps, a company spokesman at Lyon airport announced today. Four of the 18 passengers were Americans.

No information was available on survivors. The condition of the wreckage was difficult to discern from the air because of a heavy snowfall in the Alps last night.

The plane, a two-engine DC-3, left Nice yesterday for Paris. It crashed into the mountain on its southern slope and then slid back down into a valley, the company spokesman said. The site of the wreck is in the neighborhood of Chateau Bernard, 25 miles south of Grenoble.

Had French Crew
The company said the four American passengers were:

Edwin Mantz, a soldier returning to Germany from a vacation.

A Mr. Anfossi, of New York city; Emmanuel Faber, identified as having been with UNRRA in Munich, Germany.

A Mrs. Muller, also identified as a UNRRA worker, address unavailable.

The company said most of the passengers were French-vacationers returning from the Mediterranean seacoast. A Dutch and a Swedish married couple were among them. The five crew members were Frenchmen.

Gendarmes at Chateau Bernard said peasants found parts of the wreckage this morning in the snow on the mountainside. A rescue party from Grenoble which climbed 3,500 feet was reported to have found bits of the wings and tail. The party, however, was hampered by a two-foot blanket of snow which had fallen during the night.

Special Meeting Of Council On Monday

GENERAL CLAY IS CALLED TO MOSCOW TALKS

Moscow, March 15 (P)—Secretary of State George C. Marshall today summoned Lt. Gen. Lucius D. Clay, military governor of Germany, to Moscow to serve as one of the peace advisers to the council of foreign ministers.

Although it is well known that Clay is fully occupied in Germany, where he assumed the duties of U. S. commander in chief only today, the urgency of the discussions in Moscow persuaded Marshall to request his presence here.

Soviet attacks on German administration made it necessary to have a united States representative at the council table who is fully acquainted with all the facts and who can quickly supply Marshall with the required answers.

Chinese Situation

This, coupled with the impending all-important discussions on American economic policy in Germany, which are chiefly authorized by the American commander, combined to make Clay's presence essential.

Authoritative sources said today the Chinese definitely had turned down Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov's suggestion for a discussion on China and under these circumstances the United States would decline to participate in such discussions, since the U. S. position has been that China must be represented at any talks concerning her.

These sources said Marshall was willing to exchange information in writing only with the Russians about China and that this information would be confined to American troops withdrawals in China and American action under the commitments of the 1945 Moscow conference.

Clash Seems Near

The informants said that under no circumstances would Marshall discuss or exchange information on China's internal affairs or China's policies.

In the meantime, a clash between Marshall and Molotov seemed to be shaping up over the basic principles of United States' and Russian versions of "Democracy."

The council, meeting here to draw up peace treaties with Germany and Austria, was scheduled to take up for preliminary discussion in today's session the problems of displaced persons and the territorial reorganization of Germany.

The question of democracy was brought up last night when the kind of political system and extent of individual freedom to prevail in Germany were at issue.

Hurts Challenge

Marshall hurled a challenge at the Soviet Union by laying down a five-point program he said the U. S. deemed fundamental if the new Germany was to be democratic.

He asked individual rights guarantees, free political parties, free autonomous trade unions, a free press and radio and "uniform movement of persons and goods" throughout Germany.

Molotov, replying, called Marshall's remarks helpful but said the Soviet union felt that freedom of the press did not mean freedom of Nazi propaganda.

He said he would make a statement later on German democratization. Western diplomats, terming individual liberty and civil rights basic in the controversy, predicted that the Soviet reply would highlight the differences between the American and Russian systems.

Oakland, Calif. (P)—John Maher, 66, walked into a hospital here and told attendants: "I feel sick."

X-ray tests proved it; he had swallowed his toothbrush.

The brush was removed by surgery. Maher feels much better now.

Ogden, Utah, (P)—Policemen Wilson A. Allen and A. M. Gardiner parked their car outside a grocery store and went in to sell tickets to a policeman's ball. They sold two tickets and returned happily to their car—to find it tagged for parking near a fireplug.

Tom George Observes His 32nd Anniversary In Same Location

Today is an anniversary for Tom George, proprietor of the shoe repair shop and shoe shining stand at 43 Chambersburg street. For 32 years Mr. George has been doing business at the same stand.

Tom was a 19-year-old emigrant boy, with a letter in his pocket to a friend of the family in Reading, when he reached these shores. A brother was living and working at Camp Meade, Md., for nine months. When he got out of uniform again he came back here and resumed his job with his cousin. In fact, he bought a half interest in the business.

This business prospered. Tom and John sold the biggest and best peanuts in town. They put the highest polish on a pair of shoes. They did good work in cleaning up Gettysburg's old fedoras and straw skimmers.

Two important events took place in the life of Tom George in 1926: he got married, and he bought out the other half of the business. Miss Mary Anthony of Lebanon, Pa., became the bride of this enterprising Gettysburg citizen and in due course three children have arrived to share their quarters in the rear and second floor of the shoe shining and repair shop.

The peanut business is still an important adjunct. Tom sells hundreds of pounds a week. Everybody knows him, from lawyers, merchants, doctors and college professors to the men and women in less exalted walks of life.

The shoe repairing machinery was bought and installed 15 years ago. Within the last few years the original equipment has been replaced with the latest type of modern machinery, making Tom's place one of the most up-to-date in the country.

This business prospered. Tom and John sold the biggest and best peanuts in town. They put the highest polish on a pair of shoes. They did good work in cleaning up Gettysburg's old fedoras and straw skimmers.

Two important events took place in the life of Tom George in 1926: he got married, and he bought out the other half of the business. Miss Mary Anthony of Lebanon, Pa., became the bride of this enterprising Gettysburg citizen and in due course three children have arrived to share their quarters in the rear and second floor of the shoe shining and repair shop.

The peanut business is still an important adjunct. Tom sells hundreds of pounds a week. Everybody knows him, from lawyers, merchants, doctors and college professors to the men and women in less exalted walks of life.

The shoe repairing machinery was bought and installed 15 years ago. Within the last few years the original equipment has been replaced with the latest type of modern machinery, making Tom's place one of the most up-to-date in the country.

Tom George Observes His 32nd Anniversary In Same Location

Today is an anniversary for Tom George, proprietor of the shoe repair shop and shoe shining stand at 43 Chambersburg street. For 32 years Mr. George has been doing business at the same stand.

Tom was a 19-year-old emigrant boy, with a letter in his pocket to a friend of the family in Reading, when he reached these shores. A brother was living and working at Camp Meade, Md., for nine months. When he got out of uniform again he came back here and resumed his job with his cousin. In fact, he bought a half interest in the business.

BIGLER QUINT COPS TITLE IN COUNTY LEAGUE

Biglerville high school's boys clinched the championship of the Adams County Scholastic league Friday evening by defeating Littlestown 38-31 in the final game of the season at Biglerville.

Coach Gene Haas' outfit led the way and was never in serious trouble. At half time the Canners were in front 22-13.

Leading scorer for the evening was Owen Coble, Biglerville center, who looped 15 tallies. Schwartz paced the Thunderbolts with six baskets.

The victory marked the 12th in 16 starts for the Canners. It marked the final game for Coble, Ecker and Kuntz, regulars, and Bohrer, substitute, all of whom are seniors.

Sam Ehman's girls also closed a highly successful campaign by winning the preliminary affair 27-24. Littlestown led throughout the first three periods but an eight-point rally in the final period gave the Canners victory.

The Biglerville girls won 11 while losing but three during the campaign.

New York, March 15 (AP)—The field for the Eastern Regional National Collegiate Athletic Association Basketball tournament was complete today, with City College of New York, Navy and Wisconsin lined up for the big show that gets under way in Madison Square Garden next Thursday night.

City College's Beavers triumphed over the orange of Syracuse university, 61-59, in a pre-tournament play-off at Troy, N. Y., last night to decide the District 2 colorbearer. Representatives of the other three eastern districts had been chosen strictly on their seasonal records without the necessity of a playoff.

The western division field will be rounded out Monday after Oklahoma and St. Louis meet at Kansas City in a playoff to select the District 5 representative. Texas, Oregon State and Wyoming are already in. The western regionals get under way at Kansas City auditorium next Friday night.

Chicago Crusaders Play Here Tonight

Victors in 59 of 62 games played this season, the Chicago Crusaders, crack road professional basketball team will clash with the Gettysburg Merchants this evening on the Gettysburg high school floor.

In an effort to provide the stiffest opposition possible to the star-studded Crusaders the Merchants have secured the services of a number of players who performed for the Gettysburg college varsity during the past season. They include Ross Sachs, George Fair, George Boehmer, Dick Fidler, Gaylord Fissel, George Corman and Bobby March. Other members of the squad will be Abe Hankey, Roger Herr and Billy Osgood.

At 7:15 the original Merchants' team will meet Arentsville, winner of the county independent league.

FAIRFIELD HIGH DIVIDES TILTS

The Fairfield high school basketball teams closed their campaigns Friday evening by dividing a pair of games with the alumni.

In the feature game the Fairfield boys won their ninth victory against 13 reverses by gaining a 57-38 victory. After the first period when they trailed 8-7, the high school lads led all the way. Scoring honors for the winners went to Sites, Brown, J. Weikert and Seifert while Rider paced the alumni with 18 tallies.

The Fairfield girls dropped a low-scoring affair to the alumnae 14-10. The defeat was the 18th in 20 starts.

SPORTS BEFORE YOUR EYES

Walt Hehl, former Wisconsin Miler now track coach at Tennessee, plans to bring a 15-man squad north for the Penn relays in April.

Penn Manager Jim Swarts is gratified to get a Tennessee entry for the first time, but he'd still like to know where his next Mehl is coming from.

Basketball fan Duane Schulz of Long Beach, wants to know how come the statisticians who have been plugging Cliff McNeely and Jim Lacy have overlooked Tom Amberg of Long Beach City college. He's six feet seven, has scored 612 points in 30 games and has two years of college eligibility left. . . . Missouri's Don Faurot will get some help from "Pitchin' Paul" Christman of the Chi Cardinals during spring football drills. But Don hasn't figured out how to keep him around for a couple of games next fall.

HE MAT DEFEAT

Bill Bernard, Lehigh wrestling captain, got a terrific buildup for his duel with Princeton's Warner Wood. The P.A. announcer hailed him as a pre-war eastern champion, undefeated this season, etc. The entire Lehigh squad escorted him to the mat . . . and Bill promptly managed to get pinned for his only loss of the season.

Not an American league club can boast quite such a prospect, or even an individual freshman who is coming up with any fanfare to speak of. We mention it because, in past springs, it almost invariably has been an American league prodigy who was grabbing the headlines at this time.

The two most talked about freshmen in the training camps are Clint Hartung of the Giants, a prodigious character who clouts homers when he isn't putting shoo-outs, and Earl Torgeson, a regular terror of a first-baseman from out west who might bat the Boston Brows.

WEALTH IN PRINT

Never has knowledge been so easy to purchase. The classics, as well as scores of current books, are now within the reach of everyone — and at a price less than a cheap lunch. And for no greater price, many a magazine with the condensed output of a score or so of other magazines.

Millions of these books, and magazines, that you can easily slip into your pocket, have been printed, and continue to roll from the printing presses. Some forty magazines are announced for publication in the very near future, including nine "digests." It makes one wonder if there are enough trees to go around!

However, the people are the gainers. They can now learn about the thoughts of the giants of the past, and become intrigued with the thoughts of those in our own time. There is no wealth like that which enriches the mind. I find myself reading books from these cheap (and cheap only in price) editions that I always "intended" to read. And millions of others are doing the same.

And our newspapers have never been so lavish with information from selected thinkers who keep us in touch with world and domestic thought. There can be no excuse for ignorance today. There is wealth in print that is attainable at the humblest crossroads. No youth today will write in his life story tomorrow of how he had to travel miles to gain access to a single book! If it isn't available where he is, the Postman will help him to arrange the details.

It is just as essential to feed the mind as the body. Food nourishes the body for but a day. A single great book can nourish the mind for years. Just think what the Bible, Shakespeare, Milton, Marcus Aurelius, Bunyan, have meant to all time. I can now understand what my father meant as he handed me a book, when I was a small boy, and said: "Son this book is worth its weight in gold!"

IF GOLF CLUBS TALKED

If golf clubs talk, and I suppose they do at every contest's close, No doubt have I of what they say. Of me when I have gone away: "A rather friendly fellow, but it's plain he'll never learn to putt."

My driver surely oft has said: "Would Horton Smith owned me instead."

When I was made I hoped to go To some good amateur or pro. But 'twas my fate to be a club Belonging to another club.

The world will never know, or guess. The power to drive that I possess. Though I was fashioned to be great, Correct of balance and of weight, The world my worth will never see, Because the wrong man purchased me."

The irons answer, like as not: "This fellow never once gets hot. We're victims, one and all, of chance. If good men get us to advance, But if we're sold to goldom's dubs, We're just another set of clubs." (Copyright, 1947, Edgar A. Guest)

The aggregate attendance for the entire school was 3,410 persons.

The women expressed satisfaction with the manner in which Miss Louise Dixon handled the lectures. They also commented on the lecture of Miss Edna M. Ferguson on the first day and felt that she, too, had not illness overtaken her, would

Change to Clean Sludge

Most of us would be a lot happier about the troubles we have with the car if we but realized that each annoyance is a blessing in disguise. Personal realization of this came when the oil drain plug of the engine stripped a thread and refused to stay tight. It looked like a case of having to drop the pan and braze the drain. While we later found that the drain could be refitted and that brazing was not necessary the mere dropping of the pan revealed a displaced filter screen over the oil pump intake. This might have caused trouble. All in all the drain plug thing offered excellent opportunity to safeguard the oiling system and remove manually sludge, in and around the pan.

This is a worthwhile service in which all should invest now and again. The job is inexpensive on most cars.

Keep Them In Mind

An easier way to remove hub caps is to use two screw drivers. Start wedging in one of them, then insert the other in the opening. A twist of the two handles and the cap comes off easily.

I find it advisable to recheck tire pressures after a visit to the filling station, or preferably while still at the pump. Lately I have found that many pumps are inaccurate on the low side. Don't get as much air pressure as the tires need.

Snow tires do not affect the car's rear end. They may slightly change the speedometer and odometer (mileage) readings. Rear ends are damaged by using one chain or by too long use of mud hooks.

Risk In Sagged Spring

Those three little members of the younger generation who got a lift home with me the other day probably thought only of their ice cream cones and the novelty of a switch in cars but their mother now knows that when a car breaks a spring something should be done about it before troubles pile up. In using the car she had brought about damage to the fuel tank. Suddenly this leaked out all of its contents and the car was stranded.

Even a sagging spring is a source of trouble. It may make the car hard to steer. It will increase side sway on curves. It may bring one of the fenders so close to the nearest tree as to wear it rapidly.

Mechanic Joe Speaking

"Some of these so-called engine knocks certainly do send my customers up blind alleys. Just yesterday I had a car in here that had all the evidences of piston slap, yet the pistons were not the direct cause of the noise. It was a ring condition, and yet the rings themselves were not causing the noise.

"Checking carefully I found that the knock itself came from the oil filler cap which was acting as a sounding board to amplify the noise made by gases blowing by the piston rings. Furthermore, I found that the rings were allowing escape of gas vapors because they were gummed up, not worn. A good application of solvent cured it."

Too Simple For Comfort

When the story of the automobile is finally written there will be a fat chapter on the worries that are brought on by overlooking the basic things in car care. Think of all the misalignment trouble owners face because they have the front end checked over without considering weakness of the rear springs. Think of the shimmy that comes from plain underinflation, or the overheating from not having enough oil in the crankcase. Many do not realize that operating with a reduced quantity of oil has somewhat the effect of running with oil of less than average quality.

Just recently my attention was called to a bad case of what seemed to be excessive carbon. After the owner switched off the engine it continued to run for a minute or

CHRYSLERS PLEASE

"With many thousands of postwar Chrysler in the hands of owners and hundreds of millions of miles driven by them with the new cars, it now can be definitely said that public acceptance of our current models is the most enthusiastic in our history," says Stewart W. Monroe, general sales manager of the Chrysler division of the Chrysler corporation. Glenn C. Bream of Gettysburg Motors is the authorized local dealer.

Personal mention: Dr. and Mrs. Henry W. A. Hanson, college campus, are on a two weeks' cruise to Bermuda.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel A. Geyer, of Harrisburg, who had just returned from a wedding trip to Havana, the Caribbean sea and South America, visited a day last week with Mrs. Geyer's parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. Bassett, Carlisle street.

The fraternity pledge banquet sponsored by the fraternities of Gettysburg college was attended by ninety-nine persons in the Hotel Gettysburg Friday evening.

Mrs. Hannah Hoshour and Mrs. Howard S. Fox have returned to their home on South Stratton street after spending some time in Florida. Dr. and Mrs. Frank H. Clutz and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Bilheimer attended the flower show in Philadelphia on Tuesday.

when applying the brakes, the car went off the road. Not having done any damage he backed to the road again and started off very cautiously. Some distance further on at 30 miles an hour he touched the brakes and the car again went out of control.

My belief is that there wasn't enough clearance between shoes and drums for the front brakes and that the cold air and ice chilled the drums so that they did not expand at the same rate as the shoes. Can you top this one?

Short But Useful

That rough engine may be due to the clutch being out of balance. Weight distribution should be held to one-quarter ounce.

Few motorists realize it but cold weather alone is often sufficient to cause an engine to pop back a few times when first started up. Don't overshoot the clutch when starting.

Two, self-igniting its own mixture. Later he discovered that the radiator just needed water.

What Do They Mean?

A sharp knock, fairly heavy, when accelerating or decelerating the engine suddenly indicates a loose flywheel.

A heavy bumping noise when the engine is started cold usually means a main bearing is loose. When the oil goes into circulation the bearing is cushioned and the noise may cease.

Puzzling metallic chatter when first starting out may simply be high jinks at the manifold heat control valve. Don't try to check this, however.

Two Better Than One

Sometimes the most logical statements are the ones that are loaded with danger, such as one from a recent letter stating, "I have two cars and thus have twice the trouble I should have." This isn't necessarily so. I have found that, as a rule, two-car owners are more likely to have a better general understanding of cars. They are not confined to any one make or model and are more versatile. It is a great help to them when they are looking for the cause of some motor ailment. They also have the benefit of extra instruction books and often two service station affidavits.

AID TO GREECE, TURKEY NEEDED IN WORLD PEACE

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

While there can remain small doubt in most minds regarding the far-reaching implications of President Truman's declaration of a new world-policy which is calculated to halt Communistic aggression, a good many folk are puzzled as to just why Greece and Turkey have been selected as the symbols of Uncle Sam's determination.

Why shouldn't we have picked any other two countries in the path of the Red advance? How is it that these two small Balkan states cast such great shadows in global affairs?

Perhaps the easiest way to arrive at our answers is first to set down the objective of this dynamic new policy. To epitomize, it's aimed at preserving the security—both military and political—not only of the United States and the western hemisphere, but is designed to maintain world peace.

Reds Seek Domination

Communism minces no words in making it clear that it is out to destroy what it terms the capitalistic governments. It employs not only political weapons but bolsters them with Bolshevik tactics, that is, the strong-arm methods of direct action. It has struck heavily not only in Europe and Asia but is boring into many countries of the western hemisphere.

Greece and Turkey, and the Dardanelles, that great waterway between the otherwise landlocked Black sea and the Aegean, form one of the most important strategic zones of the whole world militarily. Turkey, which straddles the Dardanelles, is the land-bridge between Asia and Europe, and through the centuries the conquerors have battled for its control.

The Turks have controlled the Dardanelles for 500 years, although the strait long has been internationalized. Now Russia is reaching for domination. Should she succeed, it would give her control of the eastern Mediterranean and the whole great Middle East.

This would so completely upset the already badly battered balance of power in Europe and the Mediterranean theater as to jeopardize world peace. Such whole sale control of territory by Russia, or by any other single nation, couldn't help menacing the security of other countries.

So the United States proposes to come to the aid of Greece and Turkey because: (1) they are hard pressed, (2) they haven't the wherewithal to defend themselves, (3) they are easy geographically for the U. S. to reach, and (4) Britain's own economic crisis makes it impossible for her to give material assistance to these allies. The alternative would be for America to isolate herself, but this would mean tossing the bulk of free Europe, Asia and Africa into Moscow's hands.

Some claim the new policy must lead to war with Russia—and obviously war could eventuate. Those who favor the policy, however, say there is far greater danger in giving Bolshevism a free rein. They maintain that the present showdown may clear the air.

The picture of things-to-come in automobile styling—long, follow-through fenders, sleek lines, broad and solid look.

The picture of dynamic action, with its bonnet jam-packed with Fireball power, equally ready, equally willing for creep-speed jaunt or quick-paced emergency call.

The picture of perfect poise—with plenty of roadweight for solidity—cushioned all around on soft coil springs for jarless ease.

The picture of precise and exacting manufacture, with engine tolerances often closer than in airplane practice—bodies floated on new

Here's Proof of Extra Mileage in the Tire That OUTWEARS PREWAR TIRES

Testimonials like the above letters about the new B. F. Goodrich Silvertown are not uncommon. Nor are we surprised at this evidence of long mileage. This extra mileage was scientifically engineered into the tires. First, a wider, flatter tread was developed for longer wear and greater protection against skidding. Second, to hold that huskier tread a new 35% stronger cord was developed.

That's why we say, see us today... equip your car with the new B. F. Goodrich Silvertown... the tire that outwears prewar tires.

BOTH SIDES OF ARGUMENT ON COMMUNISTS

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, March 15 (AP)—The proposal to outlaw the Communist party in this country is bound to make men think.

Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach suggested it. Congress may act on it, to outlaw the party or reject the idea.

This proposal involves citizens' rights: freedom of speech and peaceful assembly, guaranteed by the constitution.

Freedom of speech is not unlimited. You can't dash into a theater and scream "fire" without running the risk of being jailed for endangering lives.

Constitution Is Okay

And libel laws protect one citizen against unjust charges made by another to damage him.

But, otherwise, free speech is so much a part of American living, that Americans are apt to accept it as a natural thing.

In Russia, where the Communists took over by revolution, there is a dictatorship with strong limits on freedom. The Communist party in Russia doesn't permit organized political opposition.

There is nothing in the constitution of the American Communist party which indicates it wants to do anything but come to power peacefully, by Democratic elections.

Here Is Issue Boiled Down

But critics of the American Communists say they want to come to power here by force and violence and then set up a dictatorship.

From here on is a boiled down account of an actual argument between two Americans who took time to think of freedom because of the Schwellenbach proposal.

Joe: Do you think the Communist party should be outlawed?

Jack: No. It might drive the commies underground and make them harder to find and watch. Besides, they have a right to say what they want. It's a right, a freedom we all have.

Joe: But do you think anyone has the right to urge the overthrow of the government by force?

Jack: Of course not. Anyone who does can be jailed. There's a law on the books now against that.

Joe: Do you think the Communist party has a chance of coming to power by a vote of the people?

For Weak Or Strong

Jack: No. The American people won't go for Communism.

Joe: All right. So right now you don't think the commies will ever have a chance of winning by elections. But now you're all for letting the commies have freedom—really only because they're too weak to be a danger.

But when you think they might some day win control, you're not so sure you don't want to wipe out their freedom now so they can't wipe out our freedom later.

So you're treating freedom as a luxury: you give it to the weak but not to the strong. What kind of freedom is that?

Joe and Jack didn't find an answer. You try it.

Deatrick place, west of town, when the place is occupied by the new owners, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Altland and daughter, Mary, who will move there from town. The Reid family have been residing for several months at the farmhouse which was owned and occupied by Mrs. Reid's sister, Mrs. Wilson Linebaugh, and family who now expect to reside on the Harry Lauchman farm.

PREDICT FIVE MORE NATIONS WILL SEEK AID

By ALEX H. SINGLETON

Washington, March 15 (AP)—Key

legislators predicted today at least five more countries may ask for aid under the administration's program to curb the spread of communism among war-weakened nations near the Russian borders.

They said Iran, Syria, Lebanon, Hungary and Palestine are likely to call for help soon either in the form of credit or cash grants.

Including $400,000,000 which President Truman has urged Congress to provide for Greece and Turkey and millions more for relief elsewhere in Europe and China, the ultimate cost of the overall policy may be well over $1,000,000,000, the Congress members estimated.

See Developments

They said these are probable developments:

1. Congressional approval—Somewhat later than the administration goal of March 31—or Mr. Truman's request for funds to help Greece and Turkey withstand communist pressure, plus authority to send them military and civilian missions.

The House of Commons approved yesterday a $76,000,000 supplementary appropriation to wind up British aid in Greece by March 31. Hector McNeil, minister of state, said Britain is "most anxious that the United Nations commission now in Greece make some recommendation of a permanent or semi-permanent kind" for the country's future.

Widespread Effects

2. Possible inclusion of a clause to make the fund flexible—giving the chief executive wide discretion as to whether it should be used for direct grants or loans, and where, when and how it should be spent, subject to a detailed accounting to Congress.

MONDAY and TUESDAY

Columnists' "The Return of Monte Cristo," opening Monday at the Majestic theatre, calls for star Louis Hayward to portray no less than six separate roles!

The new film, which co-stars Hayward and Barbara Britton while featuring George Macready, Una O'Connor, Henry Stephenson, Steven Geray and Ludwig Donath, depicts the striking adventures of Edmund Dantes, heir to the Monte Cristo millions. To carry out the plot's detailed plan for revenge, Hayward appears not only as Dantes but also in the disguises of a hunch-backed detective, a ragged convict, an emperor, a missionary and a bank clerk.

You remember? They were dead wrong about that chicken. It fought back!

Now once again the world watches, fascinated, as we tackle another grim emergency.

Candidly, I think that it ought to be the end of us. You can put a strain upon human nature up to a point, but that point is a breaking point.

We have got there right enough, but we shall not break. Once again we shall surprise them.

We are tough people, then? Yes, but that does not describe us. At the heart of the good folk of this country is a wonderful gentleness, an incredible patience, and a vast fund of good humour.

I am not saying that "we can take it." That did for a slogan in war-time. It won't do now. Actually, we can take it, but, if that is all, then that is not enough.

I don't pity this little old country of ours. A soldier boy, just back from the East, said to me only this week: "For months and months I have been longing to get back to England, counting the days. Now look at it! You can have it!"

I want to get out—to Syria, to the Lebanon, anywhere. I don't want to see it again."

Dear old dilapidated London, typical in its way of the whole of our nation, frozen out, blacked out, yet in all your drabness and drear
